Profile

Simon is a calm, insightful practitioner with over a decade of experience supporting clients with complex needs across health and social care. With a background in social work and specialist qualifications in mental capacity and best interests assessment, Simon is particularly skilled in navigating sensitive, high-stakes situations with clarity and empathy. His career has taken him across hospitals, rehabilitation services, education settings, and statutory care, giving him a rich understanding of the systems and support people need at different stages of life.

Simon works with individuals of all ages, from children to older adults, and has supported clients with a broad range of conditions including brain injury, neurological disease, autism, ADHD, dementia, learning disabilities, and mental health needs. As a case manager, Simon is known for his steady approach to complex scenarios. He excels at bringing together multiple services and perspectives to build tailored, sustainable care and rehabilitation plans.

At the heart of Simon's practice is a commitment to understanding each person as an individual. He listens, collaborates, and builds trust, always working to ensure that his clients are heard, respected, and supported to live as independently and meaningfully as possible.

Testimonial

"Having instructed Simon on the majority of my serious/catastrophic injury cases, I can say without a doubt that Simon is highly competent in his role as a case manager and he takes great pride in what he does. He is always willing to go that extra mile for his clients and the legal team. Simon oversees complex matters liaising with the MDT team and coordinating intensive rehabilitation for his clients suffering from serious brain injuries and is able to adapt to meet the client's needs. Thank you Simon for all of your efforts they are much appreciated!" – Paralegal
